

Basal Cell Carcinoma - BCC

- Pigmented BCC: contains melanin, may therefore resemble melanoma
- Superficial BCC: least aggressive form. More commonly on trunk, extremities. Circumscribed, round to oval, red, scaling plaque resembles eczema, psoriasis, extramammary Paget disease or Bowen disease
- Sclerosing BCC : Most subtle and least common variant. Smooth, pale white to yellow papules. Resembles scar tissue. Borders may be difficult to discern. Higher rate of recurrence
